Introduction

Helen Casey-Green first established Feather Graphics in Milton Keynes in 1987, to provide graphics and illustration to the local business community. After working for a number of years in education, specialising in printmaking and photography, she has re-established her business to sell her own work in the areas of printmaking, textiles and photography.

Printmaking by Helen Casey-Green.

Each collographic print is unique. The technique involves a complex method of applying several layers of ink to the plate, in order to create one print, the resulting prints can therefore be dramatically different. The plates will sustain small runs from a single plate up to approx 30 prints, but more usually between 1 and 20 prints.

Intaglio prints are produced without the use of acid, using drypoint and engraving tools onto Rhenalon or copper plates.

A number of fabric manipulation techniques are represented in Helen's work, Batik (wax resist) silk painting, silk screen printing and Acid Etch (Devoré) onto silk velvet. She works on a range of silks and the highest grade of silk velvet, to produce unique results from her own designs. The scarves and ties are all hand painted and may include the use of original silk screens. Helen also has a range of soft furnishings for interiors and produces other unique items, such as made to measure waistcoats.

Commissioned work is welcomed, please contact us to discuss your ideas.
